Dear Mr. Cornejo,

I'm sorry but this is the last of your ~~of~~ letters ~~for~~ which I'll take the time I do not have to respond to.

I sent you a list of my books. Why in the world do you ask me if I have any more?

With regard to Posner's ~~indecency~~ indecent exposure, if you have paid attention to what you read in my first book and ~~do~~ remembered that the sources are the best of official ones you ^{do} have known by your own ~~think~~ king that his is ~~a~~ very, very dishonest and deliberately so, an indecent commemoration of the assassination.

If you had ~~r~~ead it critically and asked yourself obvious questions, obvious if you think and do your own thinking, would you not have asked yourself if his representation of my work is a fair representation? Did you get any representation out of what he wrote? Where he referred to me and to my writing, did you ^{try} compare what he said ~~it~~ with what I did write. Or did you ask yourself why he said so much without telling the readers its source?

~~It~~ is the most dishonest of all books, and it is obviously with CIA help.

If after all this time you cannot see that for yourself, I'm sorry but I cannot now take time from work to educate you.

There is nothing about the assassination in his book ~~that~~ ^{that} stacks. If you are going to make it up, why not make it up persuasively. Especially when you know that where you give sources people will not check and where you do not ~~give~~ ^{money} sources they cannot check. But by the time they learn that they have spent the ~~none~~ ^{money} for the books.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
